

Neck Traction Air Decompression Support Brace Cervical Collar Hand Pump

RRP: $179.95

If you have cervical spondylosis, you know you'd do anything to relieve the pain and fatigue it causes. Here's an all-natural way to feel better—Randy & Travis Machinery's Air Decompression Neck Traction Support Brace. In an easily adjustable one-size-fits-all model, this cervical collar has a hand pump to provide just the right level of support.

Those prone to neck problems might want to take a proactive approach—and prevent more serious problems down the road with this support brace. Together with strengthening exercises, this device can relieve fatigue and create better neck alignment. Seniors and older people in middle age often lose muscle tone in their neck. This brace, properly inflated, will stretch cervical vertebrae with vertical traction, relieving pain from bulging or herniated disc, nerve pain, or degenerative disc disease. Use it for only about 20-30 minutes for best results.

For those with neck pain, relief is golden. With this hand-pumped support neck brace, you'll feel younger, stronger, and have more energy. Buy yours today.

Features and specifications:

- Quantity: 1
- Colour: Beige
- Gender: Any
- Size: Adjustable; one size fits all
- Accessories: Hand air pump
- Usage time limit: 30 minutes maximum

TGA ARTG Registration: 355031

