

Scaffold Steel Tube Rare Earth Magnet Magnetic Boat Level

RRP: $49.95

When working on any construction project, it's imperative that you have a Randy & Travis Machinery level at your disposal that can always guarantee an accurate reading. Whether you're an expert tradesman or doing some DIY work at home, this handy tool could be exactly what you need to make sure everything is completely level and up to the right standards. This level has a lot to offer you, including:

- Light alloy construction, which helps the level resist corrosion and abrasion, and other types of wear and tear present on a building site. You can be sure that this tool will last you years and can carry you through all kinds of construction projects.
- Curved middle vial, which allows you to measure non-flat surfaces just as easily as you can measure flat ones; not every project deals exclusively with level surfaces. For example, some could involve flowing water where a slope is necessary for it to run adequately.
- Uses powerful rare earth magnets, so you can trust that it'll stick to magnetised surfaces easily, letting you proceed with other important tasks or gather any necessary tools.
- 250mm in size, so you can easily carry and transport this tool handheld from one project to the next.
